We hit the big time!

Taste of the Stadium photo featured in Texas Monthly

AUSTIN, TX -- We were tickled to death when we learned Wednesday that our Taste of the Stadium is included in a Texas Monthly's online article about college football tailgating.

It's still hard for us to believe, but it is right there, bigger than Dallas, at: <http://www.texasmonthly.com/the-culture/the-texanist-on-tailgating/>.

Written by David Courtney (AKA The Texanist), "Huddle Up" is a sweet story about friends and family tailgating together for decades before and after University of Texas football games. Wynn Meyers' photo of our snack-filled stadium is paired with another shot of the real thing – UT's Darrell K. Royal-Texas Memorial Stadium.

Finding Taste of the Stadium in the Monthly was a wonderful surprise. That we actually knew and loved one of the story's characters, L. Dean "Your Ding Dong Daddy From Dumas" Cobb and remain good friends with his wife, Kathleen Cobb, made it all the more poignant.

We are very proud and grateful to be part of a Texas Monthly story, and our fingers are firmly crossed in hopes that it will appear in the October print edition of the well-loved, award-winning magazine.

About Taste of the Stadium

Taste of the Stadium is the perfect tray for all your snacks at football tailgate or party at home. Our stadium is easily assembled and made of food-safe, biodegradable cardboard. The stadium measures 31" X 35". The 'field' holds a 13" X 9" X 2" pan or standard 1/4 sheet cake, while the corners hold traditional sized deli or dip containers, in both round or square shapes.
